

Morning: Start in LoHi (Lower Highland)

- Begin your Denver tour with breakfast in LoHi, a neighborhood known for its trendy shops and amazing eateries. It's a great spot to enjoy a relaxed morning, sipping coffee and planning your day. LoHi is bike-friendly, so consider renting a bike to explore the area and ride down to the Cherry Creek Trail.

Midday: Explore RiNo (River North Art District)

- Head over to RiNo by midday. This area is famous for its vibrant street art, funky coffee joints, and unique boutiques. It's a perfect place for art lovers and foodies alike. Grab lunch at one of the hip eateries and enjoy the colorful murals that make RiNo stand out.

Afternoon: Relax at Washington Park

- After lunch, make your way to Washington Park to enjoy some green space and fresh air. It's one of Denver's gems, offering a peaceful escape with beautiful scenery. You can take a leisurely walk, rent a paddleboat, or just relax by the water.

Evening: Dinner and Drinks in Capitol Hill

- For dinner, Capitol Hill offers a variety of stylish restaurants and cool places to chill outside. This neighborhood is buzzing with creativity and is a hotspot for anyone who loves the arts. Enjoy a meal and then explore the galleries or catch a live performance.

Night: Highlands for Nightlife

- Wrap up your day in the Highlands, specifically the LoHi area, if you're looking for top-notch bars and a lively nightlife scene. It's right on the edge of downtown Denver and offers a blend of chic city life with a touch of old-school charm.

Tips for Your Visit

- Transportation: Denver is bike-friendly and has good public transport. Consider using these options to get around the neighborhoods.
- Stay Updated: Check out local blogs or websites like Denver Denizen for the latest events and recommendations in each neighborhood.